"Praise they that will times past, I joy to see My selfe now live: this age best pleaseth mee."

Farm bloc leaders are said to see some sinister political significance in this new Fiji word we've just got acquainted with—it's Suva.

Mississippi's 20 delegates to Houston won't know what their instructions are until Pat Harrison has told 'em.

Seems that Hoover gets the sheriff.

Chairman Butler turns to Herbert.

We gather that the principal occupation of the Washington correspondents at Kansas City is going to be rushing back to the wire and writing a new lead—after Mr. Butler grabs the headlines for being against the Commerce Secretary he grabs 'em again for the second edition for being for him.

Rather than run on the ticket with Al Smith, whose nomination he foresees, O. B. Colquitt withdraws as candidate for the Democratic nomination for Senator in Texas, a rare act of honesty which emphasizes the fact that if you want to stay in politics in this country you must sacrifice your intellectual integrity to expediency.

It seems that over in Jersey when a man enters a political race the first question asked is whether the candidate is "going to sell out." The truth of the matter is that the primary system of the wild-eyed reformers that was to purify and uplift politics has become a mere shell game.

The Government clerks who are objecting so strenuously to Pooh Bah McCarl's decision on salary increases should think goodness on their bended knees that he didn't decide that he wouldn't give anybody anything.

"There was a horse that ran a race; When he ran fast he ran apace."

On Epson Downs today the world's most famous horse will stand forth supreme above his fellows, and if we knew his name we should not tell you but would quietly place a small wager.

The winning of a game by the Nats gives almost as much of a thrill nowadays as the winning of a world series did a few years ago.

"How sad it is for us who're here, Friends and pupils and teacher dear, To say good-by, perhaps, forever, And be engulfed in life's wide river."

Another Commencement Day rolls around and we can think of nothing more appropriate to say than what Bill Lampton has already said—

"My word, Isn't the sweet girl graduate A bird?"

Iowa Republicans put the stamp of approval on the Haugen half of a celebrated firm, equalization fee 'n' everything.

The rude and haughty naughty bus, Has got our streets in quite a muddle, While private drivers rave and fuss, And stir up such an angry fuss. 'Tis quite a subject to discuss—We favor, though, the blunderbus!

It is like the conceit of a young Middy at commencement time to think that he can pay a pretty girl for a stand of colors with a kiss, but they do get away with it. A fair exchange is no robbery.

"Why, then, we'll make exchange: here, take you this. And seal the bargain with a holy kiss."

Hoover's black-and-tan hand-picked Southern delegates have been so busy getting seated they haven't decided yet just who they'll vote for.

The Australian fliers arrived at Suva with enough gallons left to satisfy a dry delegate to the Houston convention.

Mussolini tells the world. As the Texas negro said when he had been listening to one of Senator Joe Bailey's campaign speeches, "he certainly do recommen' hisself mos' highly."

Miss Mabel Boll frats at the weather conditions which prevent her from hopping over the Atlantic ahead of Miss Earhart—the Queen of Diamonds does not want to be trumped by a feminine Ace.

Uninstructed Democratic delegates at Houston will be all dressed up and no place to go.

California aviatrix faces a life term in the penitentiary for forging a check for $100. This crime seems to be almost as serious as carrying half a pint of gin on the hip.

Every time there's a little wire trouble on the line now folks will jump to the conclusion it's been short-circuited by Lowman's ear.

WEATHER HOLDS UP STULTZ; AMERICANS GOING TO AUSTRALIA

Atlantic Take-Off Today Unlikely; High Wind Prevents Fueling.

TRIO WANT TO SET RECORD OF DISTANCE

Rumors 2 Will Quit Southern Cross Unfounded; Landed With 30 Gallons.

St. Johns, N. F., June 5 (A.P.)—A report from Trepassy tonight announced unfavorable weather over the Atlantic Ocean made it appear unlikely the monoplane Friendship would take off tomorrow on its projected flight to Europe.

A high wind today delayed the work of refueling the plane and tonight 30 gallons of gasoline remained to be pumped into the tanks. Wilmer Stultz, pilot of the plane, received reports indicating poor flying conditions over the sea, but said that a resumption of the flight, started Sunday with a secret take-off from Boston, would be made as soon as circumstances permit.

Miss Amelia Earhart, Boston social worker and copilot of the plane, who hopes to be the first woman to complete the eastward air-crossing of the Atlantic, was said to be chafing at the delay and anxious to get started at the earliest possible moment.

Destination Is Indefinite.

Trepassy, N. F., June 5 (A.P.)—While Miss Earhart and her two male companions, Wilmer Stultz, pilot, and Louis Gordon, mechanic, grew impatient over their delay today, northwest winds swept the harbor here throughout the forenoon and made it impossible to refuel the plane. Except for the high wind, the weather conditions appeared favorable for the flight. The visibility was excellent.

Miss Earhart and her companions made it known today that their destination was indefinite. Although it was at first reported that they intended to land at London, or Southampton, they said today that they planned to remain in the air as long as their supply of fuel lasted, hoping to cover a greater distance than any of their predecessors who have succeeded in crossing the Atlantic by air.

Woman Makes Flight.

London, June 5 (A.P.)—Mrs. Frederick Guest, the former Amy Phillips, of Pittsburgh, and the wife of Frederick Guest, Secretary of State for Air from 1921 to 1922, today was revealed as a backer of the flight of the monoplane Friendship from America to England. She will fly to Southampton today to greet Miss Amelia Earhart and her companions on this year's first transatlantic airplane flight to Europe.

"We hope the flight will serve as a link of continued friendship between America and England," Mrs. Guest said. "I originally planned to have the Friendship land in the Thames opposite the historic houses of Parliament, but the air ministry advised that Southampton would be safer."

"Both Capt. Guest, myself and our children are deeply interested in the advance of aviation," Mrs. Guest continued. "The cost of the flight at the very least will be $5,000 (about $40,000), but I do not know the exact figure. The cost never has been an important consideration. We have spared no expense to make the flight as safe as science and human ingenuity would permit in order to be truly helpful to the cause of aviation."

Mrs. Guest said that the flight preparations had been under way throughout the winter at Boston, where she had the cooperation of Commander Richard E. Byrd.

Americans to Go to Australia.

Suva, Fiji, Wednesday, June 6 (A.P.)—The American members of the Southern Cross crew will continue aboard the transpacific monoplane Southern Cross to Australia, it was announced here late today. This dispelled early doubt concerning Navigator Harry Lyon and Radioman James Warner.

When the plane will take off for Brisbane, the next stage of the flight, was undecided after an all-day inspection of possible runways for the take-off.

All day there had been rumors that Lyon and Warner would be left behind when the plane started for Brisbane. These rumors had been based here in advance of the plane's arrival. Inspection showed that the giant plane had 30 gallons of gasoline left in its tanks after landing at Suva at the end of its 3,198-mile flight from Hawaii. This was less than enough, it was calculated to keep it up for another hour of flight.

Disclosure that only 30 gallons were left of the 1,275 to 1,300 taken aboard at Kauai Island carried its own story of how small was the margin by which the airmen succeeded. The great plane consumed approximately 36 gallons of gasoline an hour during its flight of 34 hours and 33 minutes from Hawaii to Suva.

Another flight overseas confronts the Southern Cross when it takes off for Brisbane—a long stretch of 1,750 miles westward over the south Pacific Ocean.

FACES LIFE TERM

Wife of Mrs. Evelyn Rosencrantz.

WOMAN AVIATOR FACES LIFE FOR BOGUS CHECK

Same Term, Says Judge, for $100 Theft as Given Slayer of Wife.

KILLER CAN GET PAROLE

Oakland, Calif., June 5 (A.P.)—Mrs. Evelyn Rosencrantz, aviatrix and former movie director at Holy City, Calif., today faced a life sentence in San Quentin Prison instead of a projected airplane journey across the Atlantic, because she recently cashed a bogus check.

Mrs. Rosencrantz was convicted in superior court here yesterday of cashing a worthless check for $100. It was her fourth conviction on a felony charge, hence she must, under the law, be sentenced to life imprisonment. Her three previous offenses were cashing bad checks. Commenting on the law, Judge Fred V. Wood said it was obviously unfair in this case.

"Here," said the judge, "is a woman convicted four times of cashing bad checks for a total of $400. She must go to the penitentiary for life without the right of parole. We have just convicted in this court a man, Arthur Atkinson, of brutally murdering his wife and dismembering her body in order that he might marry a younger woman. He also is sentenced to life imprisonment, but will be eligible for parole after ten years. This is contrary to justice, admitting this woman is guilty of all charges against her." Formal sentence will be pronounced Friday.

Mrs. Rosencrantz once had plans under way for a transatlantic hop. She said she was temporarily deterred when she accepted a position at Holy City, a religious colony in the Santa Cruz Mountains, to organize a religious movie company. She later sued William E. Ryker, head of the colony, for breach of contract and breach of promise. The case has not come to trial. Ryker emphatically denied all the charges.

Bay State House Asks Reading Impeachment

Boston, June 5 (A.P.)—By a roll call vote of 196 to 18 the State House of Representatives today adopted a resolution recommending that Attorney General Arthur K. Reading be impeached and removed from office for "gross misconduct." Action followed an all-day debate on the report of a special committee which investigated the official's conduct in office.

Chicago, June 5 (A.P.)—A gang of nine robbers today escaped with jewelry valued at $15,000 from the vaults of a downtown shop after kidnapping an employee and terrorizing him and members of his family all night until they surrendered the keys to the store and gave the safe combination.

John Wohl, 27, was kidnapped late last night. His captors took him to his home, aroused his wife, her sister and two children and threatened the keying them forced Wohl to surrender the keys and give the safe combination.

Although occasional showers are forecast for today, the Weather Bureau predicted that the rain would give only momentary relief from the hot spell.

The bureau predicted that today would see hardly any variation from the temperature of yesterday, which was a high of 87 degrees shortly before 4 o'clock. The mercury lingered in the 80's throughout the late morning and afternoon.

BUSINESS HIGH WINS COMPETITIVE DRILL AFTER 14-YEAR WAIT

Company E Takes First Honors, Defeating E, of Central.

THIRD PRIZE GIVEN TO H, OF WESTERN

Rookie Cadets From Eastern Get Honorable Mention; 16,000 Cheer Contest.

For fourteen years students at Business High School have waited and cheered for a winner in the annual high school competitive drill of the cadet corps. Each year since 1914 they have waited breathlessly in the stands at American League Baseball Park as the brigade adjutant paraded before the brigade and then saluted the winning company commander—always some one other than their own. But yesterday was Business High School's day. Once more they came into their own, as Company E, commanded by Capt. Israel Silverman, won the coveted flag.

Another Company E, that of Central High School, commanded by Capt. R. Minor Hudson, was awarded second prize. Company H, of Western High School, captained by Edwin S. Hartshorn, Jr., was awarded third prize.

Company G, of Eastern High School, commanded by Capt. Max H. Cohen, won honorable mention as the best of the "rookie" companies competing. Many of the members of this command were so small it seemed a hardship for them to carry their heavy rifles.

It was nearly 5 o'clock before Company K, of Western, the last company competing, left the field yesterday afternoon.

Cheers Greet Decision.

Led by the regimental band, the 30 companies marched onto the field and stood at attention as the brigade adjutant, Col. Wallace M. Craigie, U. S. Army, professor of military tactics and sciences in the high schools, of the identity of the winning company.

"Capt. Craigie then notified the brigade adjutant, who saluted, faced the companies and then walked a few paces to the center of the companies. It was a mighty moment for the 1,875 cadets who participated in the drill. Just as much so, too, for the 16,000 fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers and friends who had "rooted" and cheered for the boys during the hot morning and afternoon.

The cheers and jabbering in the stands which had accompanied every movement of the cadets during the drill had ceased. The adjutant had stopped, he was looking to the "right, then to the left, and then straight ahead. The adjutant always does. He

DUCE URGES AMITY FOR ITALY; PRAISES FRIENDSHIP OF U.S.

Mussolini, in Survey of World, Calls Cabinet at Belgrade Brave.

HOLDS CLOSER TIES WITH PARIS NEEDFUL

Conciliatory Tone of Speech to Senate Surprises; Bid Made to Germany.

Rome, June 5 (A.P.)—Premier Mussolini presented himself before the senate today as both an aggressive and prudent speaker. He reviewed Italy's relations with all the countries of the world, emphasized the excellent relations with the United States, Italy's traditional friendship with England, improved relations with France, and fraternal ties with Spain.

He expressed hope for the return of amity with Germany and dwelt upon the trade relations existing between Italy and the Soviets. The dominant note of his speech was that Italy wished friendship with all other countries, but at the same time that she must be ready not to permit anybody to step on her toes.

Speaking of the United States, Mussolini said that country had played a very great role since the war, he might say, a predominant role in the history of the world. Relations between the two countries were characterized recently by three events of special importance—regulation of the war debt, initiation of the conference on naval armaments and the signature in April of a treaty of arbitration and conciliation.

He recalled that Italy had declined the invitation of the United States to participate in the naval disarmament conference at Geneva.

Explains Naval Stand.

"In a note answering the American proposal," he explained, "I showed the reasons why Italy could not join in the conference, which was held without Italy or France, the gathering resulting in complete bankruptcy, particularly because of the great divergencies between the United States and England with regard to fixing tonnage and the number of cruisers."

"The character of the treaty of conciliation and arbitration between the United States and Italy is defined in its articles and, above all, in its preamble. Now there is on the program Secretary Kellogg's proposal. Italy's attitude has been defined in a letter made public."

"Before leaving the subject of Italian-American relations," continued Mussolini, "I wish to touch on two questions which now and then excite polemics and kindle the interest of American public opinion. Concerning the immigration law and the relative quota, we

$7,500,000 Dividend To Tobacco Sellers

New York, June 5 (A.P.)—George J. Whelan, president of the Union Tobacco Co., today announced a plan for distributing a stock dividend of approximately $7,500,000 among the company's jobbers and retailers.

Whelan said that the decision to distribute the stock was made in answer to a plea from the stock committee of tobacco retailers and jobbers for a living margin of profit. The dividend made available is 300,000 shares, which at the present market price of about $25 a share amounts to $7,500,000.

W. M. BUTLER SWINGS VOTE TO HOOVER IN CONTESTS AFTER OPPOSING SECRETARY

Chairman Plans to Conclude All Contests Tomorrow Night

Kansas City, July 5 (A.P.)—In two days the Republican national committee has disposed of half of the convention delegate contests on its calendar. Chairman Butler announced tonight. He would seek to wind up the hearings by Thursday night. Contests ruled on thus far are:

Florida—Four at large and five district delegates. Total, 9.

Kentucky—First district, two delegates.

Georgia—Fifth District, one delegate.

Louisiana—Four at large and eight district. Total, 12.

Mississippi—Four at large and eight district. Total, 12.

Those still on the calendar for review are:

Georgia—First and seventh districts. Total, 2.

South Carolina—Four at large.

Tennessee—Third and tenth districts. Total, 3.

Texas—Four at large and 22 district delegates. Total, 26.

Porto Rico—Two delegates.

An attempt probably will be made to contest the certified delegation from the District of Columbia, but there are indications that the contests from South Carolina and from the Third Tennessee District, the latter involving two seats, will not be pressed.

By ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Special to The Washington Post.

Kansas City, Mo., June 5.—While the Hoover majority of the Republican national committee continued today to seat Hoover delegates from Southern States to the national convention, President Coolidge loomed larger and larger as the dominating factor of the problem of the selection of the Republican candidate for President. Close as Hoover is to the nomination his managers do not expect him to achieve it so long as there remains the possibility that the President might consent to run again, notwithstanding his reiterated renunciation. Hoover now is conservatively credited with not less than 400 delegates.

With nine added yesterday by the seating of the Hoover delegates from Florida, with 12 added today from Georgia and Louisiana, with 12 from Mississippi, with other Southern votes in prospect as a result of the operation of the Hoover steam roller in the decisions of the national committee on contested seats the Secretary of Commerce will have upward of 450 votes in the early balloting. With various groups of delegates who are for Coolidge first and Hoover second, the Commerce Secretary possesses a potential strength placing him within striking distance of 545 votes constituting the majority necessary to a nomination. So long, however, as the renomination of the President figures as a possibility Hoover will be unable to reach the goal. In fact the whole theory of the campaign made by Mr. Hoover is that he does not want to win the nomination if the President will accept it.

The Hoover management has proceeded from the beginning, however, on the assumption that the President when he said he did not choose to run again meant that he definitely took himself out of consideration. Most of the Hoover leaders, therefore, are confident that in due time Mr. Coolidge will remove any doubts on this score by a public statement or a message to the convention to the effect that he will not accept. That, they believe, will clear the way to put Hoover over without further delay.

So confident are the Hooverites of the soundness of their interpretation of the President's attitude that some of them favor the strategy of smoking Mr. Coolidge out in the event that he fails to break his silence before the roll is called for the first time in the national convention. The issue was clouded, however, by the failure of most of the delegate aspirants to make known their positions. The delegate races for the most part were overshadowed by those in which Gov. John W. Martin, of Jacksonville, sought to wrest from United States Senator Park Trammell, Lakeland, the office he has held for twelve years, and the five-cornered contest for governor for which racing, a sport that has suffered recently in Florida because of the law against wagering, figured to some extent as an issue.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, who is contesting the seat of Representative W. J. Sears in the Fourth Congressional District for the second time in two years, led her opponent by a margin of about 300 votes.

Whatever the chairman's motive may be, Hoover continued today to add strength to his delegate list. To the entire Florida Hoover delegation, seated by the national committee yesterday, today were added pledged votes from Louisiana. Two Kentucky Hoover men also were seated. The defeated delegates, who sought seats on an unstructured platform, have the right to appeal from the committee decision but it has been unusual for either the convention or its credentials committee to overrule the central organization.

STOKES DEFENCES BIG ELECTION FUND IN JERSEY PRIMARY

Defeated Candidate for Senate Tells Committee Money Rules State.

POOR MAN CAN NOT RUN FOR OFFICE, HE ASSERTS

"How Much Dough Has He?" First Question Asked in Campaigns, He Declares.

(Associated Press.)
Placing his own expenditures at $14,600.44 in the recent five-cornered Republican senatorial primary in New Jersey, Edward C. Stokes, who was runner-up, yesterday declined to make any charges against the other candidates before the Reed campaign funds committee. Stokes severely condemned the use of money in the campaign and blamed his defeat to failure to spend more money.

Hamilton F. Kean, winner of the primary, told the committee Monday he made up a campaign fund of $50,000 for his race, of which all but $10,000 was spent. A representative of Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, who ran third, also testified that he had a $50,000 fund, spending about $48,000 of it.

The protests made by Stokes, a former Governor of New Jersey, against the use of money during the primary campaign which ended May 15, led to the Senate ordering the inquiry.

Could Not Prove Frauds.
But with reports now before it from the three leading candidates, the committee adjourned yesterday, subject to call of its chairman, and it seemed unlikely that further investigation would be made until after the two national party conventions are concluded, early in July.

Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon, if he knew of any fraud in the last campaign, Stokes said some charges were made probably as a result of "excessive votes" in some precincts. He explained that in some places almost unanimous votes were cast for one man, but under questioning he was unable to name any places, referring the committee to the election returns.

Referring to Mr. Kean, who defeated him, Stokes declared Kean had been a candidate for the Senate ever since four years ago against Senator Edge (Republican), New Jersey. Asked if he thought Mr. Kean had paid workers during that four years, Stokes did not know, but he said he did not think Kean would do for nothing what they had been doing on Kean's behalf during that time.

Charges Money Rules.
Then under questioning by Senator King (Democrat), Utah, the former governor launched into a speech against the use of money in elections, advocating legislation to prohibit candidates from spending any sums whatever and limiting contributions to their campaigns. He said it had reached the point in the Senate where it was necessary to ask "How much dough has the candidate got?"

Public sentiment in the State, he declared, was "demoralized" with politicians following the man of wealth; the "machine" controlling the voters and money controlling the machine. Stokes said he contributed $3,000 to his campaign fund of $16,355 and that he pocketed what was left when all the bills totaling $13,355 had been paid. He described his contest as an "interesting experiment." He said he had no doubt that he could have won had he had the money, and he admitted that he had lost because he had not.

convention on the nomination of the candidate. To do this the Hooverites would throw a large proportion of their votes to Coolidge on the first ballot. The votes of those who are in the out-and-out advocates of the drafting of Coolidge would give the President several hundred and would be likely to precipitate a stampede in his favor unless his spokesmen in the convention should halt it with an announcement of the Executive's positive declaration. The lines of the battle to stop Hoover are now definitely drawn. The Eastern opponents of Hoover who are bent on drafting Coolidge have joined hands with the Lowden men from the corn belt and the supporters of favorite sons. These groups are widely at variance on the nomination of the candidate. They have virtually only one thing in common, and that is the desire to prevent Hoover from winning the prize. They are in agreement in the belief that Hoover, if nominated, would lose not only the Middle West, but New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey and other Eastern States.

This combination of anti-Hoover forces has been operating in the national committee in the decision of delegate-contests. The Hooverites have a strong grip on the committee and are using the whip hand freely.

The national committee spent most of the day hearing the contest between the rival delegations from Louisiana. The committee, by a vote of 55 to 41, rejected the Hoover delegation and gave the seat to the Coolidge delegation. The large group were selected by the faction following the leadership of Emil Kuntz, national committeeman for Louisiana. Then the Hoover managers withdrew their opposition to the seating as a district delegate Walter L. Cohen, a negro who is collector of customs at New Orleans and leader of the Coolidge faction. Kuntz heads the whites and Cohen the blacks.

Cohen, an elderly man, with a bald head and gray moustache and goatee, gave the committee its first big laugh when dashing into the room out of breath he took his seat. He addressed the body and pulled off a raincoat disclosing no coat or waistcoat beneath. He hastily removed the raincoat and color is tan by virtue of an admixture of white blood. He calls himself the "Big Four" from Louisiana.

not know, but he said he did not think Kean would do for nothing what they had been doing on Kean's behalf during that time.

Charges Money Rules.
Then under questioning by Senator King (Democrat), Utah, the former governor launched into a speech against the use of money in elections, advocating legislation to prohibit candidates from spending any sums whatever and limiting contributions to their campaigns. He said it had reached the point in the Senate where it was necessary to ask "How much dough has the candidate got?"

A "poor man" can not run in that State, he declared. He said when he entered the race the question was asked, "Is the old man going to shell out?"

Public sentiment in the State, he declared, was "demoralized" with politicians following the man of wealth; the "machine" controlling the voters and money controlling the machine.

Stokes said he contributed $3,000 to his campaign fund of $16,355 and that he pocketed what was left when all the bills totaling $13,355 had been paid. He described his contest as an "interesting experiment." He said he had no doubt that he could have won had he had the money, and he admitted that he had lost because he had not.

triple challenge to the Ku Klux Klan, for he is a negro, a Catholic and the grandson of a Jew.
Mrs. Jane F. Perrin, a white woman, who was one of the Cohen delegates, made a plea to the women members of the committee to reject the Hoover delegates. She said the white women of the South "will be dishonored" if the Cohen black-and-tan delegates were not recognized. She pictured the negroes of the South as the victims of disfranchisement by the Democrats because of color.

Former Senator Lenroot made the argument in defense of the legality of the Hoover delegation. Kuntz denied that his faction is lily white. Four out of the twelve members are negroes.

Following the disposition of the Louisiana contest the committee, by viva voce vote, seated National Committeeman Perry Howard, a negro, and his black-and-tan delegation from Mississippi. The Howard delegation is classed as pro-Hoover. Howard having been financed by Hoover money, but he has been saying lately that he is for Coolidge while fighting with Lowden. The contesting delegation was pro-Hoover, and the controversy involved chiefly control of the Republican "organization" in Mississippi.

Here but a number of the leading farm relief advocates have not yet reached Kansas City. Cohen and there was no activity at his headquarters.

Watson is a member of the committee designated to draft the corn belt farm demands. This committee was expected to function here with the expectation that a demand would be made for "application of the tariff protection to agricultural products." Just how far the demands will be carried, whether they will include the equalization fee plan for providing funds to control overproduction, or whether a large gathering of farmers would be on hand to back up these demands was something impossible to determine on the basis of discussions and known plans at the convention seat.

All but two of the dozen delegates from Louisiana on the state sponsored by Emil Kuntz were granted convention seats today by the Republican national committee in the face of opposition from the Hoover delegation. The delegates were seated by the Republican leader in New Orleans.

Cohen, however, succeeded in landing a place on the delegation as a delegate from the First district, as did J. H. Lowery, a member of his faction, as the Sixth district convention representative.

Cohen and Lowery are unopposed, while the "Big Four" from Louisiana and each of the delegates from the Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Eighth districts are pledged to support Hoover.

The contest over the delegate sent from the Fifth Georgia district was settled out of court yesterday, but an effort to adjust a similar dispute in the First Georgia district failed when Chairman and money controller the machine. Mrs. Henderson Waves The Magic Wand

Mrs. John B. Henderson, of Washington, D. C., wields a strange though unofficial power over Capital affairs. Under her magic touch the dirty alley of old Sixteenth Street becomes majestic, fashionable, "Diplomatic Hill."

Socially the most prominent woman in Washington, this amazing leader, at 85, holds vast political power in her dainty, jeweled hand.

What government dignitary dares to decline an invitation to her meatless dinner? What climber would not pawn her jewels to sip Mrs. Henderson's sparkling—er—water!

Much goes on in the world's history in those intimate Monday afternoon dances for Diplomats!

Meet Mrs. Henderson intimately in June Plain Talk. Study her charm, her habits, her eccentricities, her vigor. Observe her as she trenchantly campaigns against liquor, meat, tobacco and flesh-colored hose. Presidents may come and presidents may go, but Mrs. John B. Henderson remains a power to be cultivated and understood.

You must read Duff Gilford's bright, informative article on Mrs. Henderson in June Plain Talk. You will enjoy, also, the astonishing new angles to our engrossing political situation revealed for the first time by Will Durant, Senator Gerald P. Nye, Theodore Tiller, and others.

Here's a real vacation!

New delights to refresh you in body and spirit...

It's like a trip abroad!

CROSS the line into Southern California and you are in a new and "foreign" world—uncommon in sights, fascinating in natural wonders and delightful in summer climate. You may enjoy the beaches under a friendly sun, and within a few hours be standing in snow in the High Sierra fishing for golden trout! Contrasts are startling!

Los Angeles, gateway to all the novel interest points in this inviting land, is practically surrounded by orange, lemon, walnut and avocado groves. Palms line the streets of suburban cities and communities. Nearby are more than mile-high mountains from whose peaks views yield life-time memories. Wherever you drive out on the 5,000 miles of paved boulevards the picture changes.

No rain should mar a moment of your stay. Summer day temperatures are moderate with low humidity. Nights are cool—bring light wraps. You will sleep under blankets nine nights out of ten.

Southern California's 271 miles of broad, smooth beaches extend to the Mexican line and offer unexcelled aquatic sport. Dotted along the coast are dozens of the seaside cities—Santa Barbara, Ventura, Santa Monica, Long Beach, Laguna, Balboa, La Jolla, and many others—each different.

And, such a golf paradise! Within easy distance are 65 evergreen courses; tennis courts are everywhere. Mountain trails put new interest in saddle sport.

On the trips to the charming Southland cities of San Diego, San Bernardino, Riverside, Pasadena, your road will lead past Old Spanish Missions which vividly recall the days of the Don.

Los Angeles—new gateway to Hawaii and the Orient, as well as to the entire Pacific Coast—is distinctly cosmopolitan. Great theatres, hotels, cafes, each have a part in making Southern California life inviting. You should not miss hearing and seeing "Symphonies under the Stars," directed by world-famed conductors in the mountain-encircled Bowl at nearby Hollywood, movie land capital. Los Angeles County is among the country's richest in natural resources. Last year its agricultural products approximated $92,000,000, while its miles of oil fields are valued at a billion dollars.

Such a land you surely want to see and know all about. Come this summer—sure. An additional attraction will be the Pacific Southwest Exposition at Long Beach, beside the blue Pacific, beginning July 27 and continuing through August. Come by rail, by steamship through the Panama Canal or drive over one of the national trails.

Consult your nearest railroad ticket agent about special low round trip rates, in effect until October 31. You may see the entire Pacific Coast at small extra expense.

Send at once for an authentic 52-page illustrated vacation book. It will give you the facts!

TEXAS BISHOP ADDRESSES CATHEDRAL GRADUATES

48 RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

That higher education will prove a challenge to their faith was pointed out to 48 seniors of the National Cathedral School for Girls at the annual commencement exercises held in Bethlehem Chapel of Washington Cathedral by the Right Rev. VIRGINIA GIRL PRESENTS COLORS TO MIDSHIPMEN

Kiss Marks Ceremony at Annapolis; Admiral and Mrs. Nulton Hosts.

Special to The Washington Post. Annapolis, Md., June 5.—A garden party in honor of the graduates and their girl friends, given by Rear Admiral Louis N. Nulton, superintendent, and Mrs. Nulton, and the annual ring dance, at which the second class is host, marked today's June Week festivities at the Academy.

The garden party was attended by about 1,000 guests. The superintendent and Mrs. Nulton, with the admiral's staff of aids, received them in the reception room and on the porch. Two orchestras furnished the music. The garden in the rear of the superintendent's home was beautifully decorated, with an illuminated fountain as a feature.

Another feature of today's program was the regimental dress parade, at which the national and regimental colors, awarded for general efficiency, were awarded the Seventh Company, of which Midshipman Charles Kendall, of Baltimore, is commander. The winning commander names the girl to make the presentation. The honor fell to Miss Ann Porter Jones, of Richmond, Va.

Clad in light blue flowered chiffon, with hat to match, and wearing the colors, she simultaneously moved toward one another. As the colors were presented the winning commander kissed the fair giver. The ceremony was witnessed by several thousand from the stands.

This morning the regiment gave an exhibition of physical drill under arms to the accompaniment of the Academy Band.

ARCHBISHOP PRESENTS TRINITY CLASS DIPLOMAS

Rt. Rev. Michael J. Curley Awards Degrees; Representative Mooney Speaks.

The character of the next generation will be shaped by the present day college girls of the Nation. Representative Charles A. Mooney, of Ohio, yesterday told the graduating class at Trinity College at exercises held in Notre Dame Chapel. He warned the young women that they should not let their domestic duties exclude them from politics although advocating marriage.

"Under our complex industrial civilization it is woman's job to make the home and train the children," Representative Mooney said. "Records show that more than 80 per cent of women who graduate from liberal arts colleges marry within five years. To what greater purpose can your culture and your training be directed than in helping form the character and ideals of tomorrow's men and women. But neither marriage nor motherhood should absolve the women of today from the exercise of their duties as citizens. It should be the business of every woman to inform herself on all public issues and then vote."

The most Rev. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore and president of the board of trustees of the college, conferred the degrees and awarded the diplomas to the 63 members of the graduating class.

Twenty-six States and the District of Columbia were represented in the graduating class. Those from the District are: Helen Brogan, Mary Buckley, Ruth Craven, Mary Doody, Mildred Goff, Catherine McMahon, Laurette Martin and Helena O'Neill.

Other members of the class are Gertrude Austin, Ellen Barrett, Catherine Callahan, Mary Donohue, Elizabeth Graham, Regina Hamelin, Katherine Hearn, Isabel Hesse, Helen Howard, Florence Hurley, Madeline Lyons, Eileen McLaughlin, Margaret McDonald, Anna Quinn, Marion Staughness, Helena Sullivan, Helen Walsh, Catherine Whelan, Dorothea White, Barbara Young.

Mary Bannon, Mary Brennan, Mary Louise Coleman, Dorothy Davies, Phebe Flanagan, Margaret Egan, Ethel Johnson, Evelyn Merrick, Marie K. Murphy, Helen Louise Purcell, Dorothy Burns, Anna Campbell, Ellen Hughes, Lenore Kelly, Mildred Morehead, Catherine Weber, Mildred Wittmann.

Mildred Cook, Helen Corcoran, Elizabeth Foley, Katherine Foss, Eleanor Mooney, Isabelle Mooney, Christine Wagner, Ursula Armstrong, Margaret McCormick, Irene Whelan, Helen White, Helen O'Toole, Alice Joubert, Elsie Pauly, Margaret Sullivan, Elizabeth Beck, Catherine Dunagan, Margaret Graham.

Elizabeth Matthews, Catherine Brown, Margaret Burke, Sylvia Corral, Ann Delaney, Alice Wolohan, Olive Henneberry, Frances Smith, Dorothy McBride, Aileen Murphy, Constance Kivlighan, Jean Wehner, Virginia Seep, Virginia Cooke, Hilda Ashford, Margaret Bradley, Rebecca Field and Rita Venable.

Sheraton

THOMAS SHERATON was a furniture designer of rare ability, and, though throughout his whole career he labored with one motif, yet by his indomitable courage and self-assurance he established for himself an immortal reputation.

MOST of his lines were straight and he never used short, sharp curves, but whenever he employed curved lines they were inevitably long, sweeping ones.

OUR displays of furniture in the manner of Sheraton are interesting, because they show that the conceptions of a genius remain forever in good taste.

Voorhis, 88-year-old president of the board of elections, today on his reelection as grand sachem of the Tammany Society. The venerable grand sachem was elected in 1911. Under the by-laws of Tammany, a grand sachem may be elected for only one year. They provide, however, that the grand sachem shall remain in office until his successor is duly elected. Each member, therefore, votes for himself at the annual meetings of the council of sachems, to make certain that the tradition of keeping Voorhis head of the society will be upheld. Samuel H. Wandell, of the finance department, was elected scribe of the council.

But instead of selling them at our own price we have marked them at a price that will startle the entire tailoring market, and will make prohibitive competition for all time to come.

$38.75 will be the price for three days only $38.75 After that, if any are left, the price will be $70.00

You can have your measure taken for one of these special suits, hand tailored to order to the highest type of excellence. The Freeny Company puts into these suits the same high standard of workmanship, cutting and fitting that they would if you paid the regular price of $70.00.

These special suits, as well as all others bearing our label, entitles the wearer to valet service, gratis. All garments hand pressed.

Remember Today, Tomorrow and the next day, as another day will be too late to obtain one of these suits for less than regular price.

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

By ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.
The Parent Counselor.

GIRLS GOING TO COLLEGE.

WILL you not please write as lovely a letter to us as you did to the boys last week about choosing a college? Surely you don't intend to leave us out.

"JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL GIRL."
"Dear Girls—And so you want to go to college? That is very nice to wonder why. It is going to cost your dad a pretty penny for your tuition, living and extras. It means possibly four years of anxiety on the part of your mother. Often, when the day has fled and the night rules, your mother will say: 'I wonder where Mary is to-night.' College is a very expensive matter. Now, why should you go? Is your reason one of these, which have so often come to me?"

"Because everybody else is going. There's Sarah Butler. She's going to college. And Mary Brown is going to college. So everybody is going because everybody else is. Evidently college going is like wearing short skirts—'everybody does it.' Or—"

"Because that's the only way to get around here. I am tired of this old burg, and I want to see something else. Just between ourselves, I'd like to get away from this tied-down home and join up with Liberty Hall." So the secret is out! You expect a lot of liberty on the college campus. You must have been reading some untrue college story of the collegiate cut-ups. Unless you get that notion out of your head you'll be back in the old burg by Christmas. The reason will be given in the local news items: 'On account of ill health, &c.' Or, perhaps—"

"Because I want to get finished and college does give one such a polish." Well, I do declare! So you are like a piece of wood that needs scraping, sandpapering, varnishing and rubbing down. When it comes to polishing much depends on the nature of the wood. Because of the grain and the degree of the hardness birch makes a pretty good imitation of mahogany. But not all woods take a polish equally well. There's nothing like an honest finish on an honest wood. A weather-beaten shingle is a color which no stain can duplicate. A pine corner cupboard in its natural wood brings fabulous prices in antique shops. Evidently you have little confidence in the quality of your own background and want a college polish. Or again—"

"Because there's no job in this town for one in our social position, and I'm not going to go to work in any 8-and-10 or in an office or factory. Anyway, I'm going to get married by and by and I've got to do something to fill in the time." So this is what the legislature appropriates money for or what donors support private colleges for—to afford a resting place for vacant heads and idle hands? I guess you'd better stay home and sit and think, and if you get tired just sit. If you sit long enough and dance hard enough some meal ticket will take you.

Now, girls, these are not satisfactory reasons for going to college. In tomorrow's column we will talk over some of the reasons for girls going to college.

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER.

Vacation Laziness.

Now that school is closed my 12-year-old is getting careless about cleaning her teeth. Her 6-year-old brother, following her lead, doesn't care to be washed every day. What can I do about it?

Answer—You need my two helpees, "Health Score Card," for the younger and "Children's Teeth and Their Care" for the older girl to read. If this doesn't bring about a change in the girl's attitude of caring for her teeth I don't know what will.

Keeping Up.

What do you think of the idea of being kept after school sometimes four to six hours a week to make up for studies?

UNWILLING PUPIL.

Answer—If a child wants to keep up in school he either must keep up in the classroom, by study at home, or keep up by staying after school.

Youth's Agonies.

DEAR Miss McDonald—I can not refrain from giving encouragement to "Tortured Seventeen," if she will accept it as such. I too have gone through what she is now experiencing. I started at the beginning. I had just reached 15 when I entered high school, an innocent, very delicate girl, quite different from the flappers there, whom I disliked. There was one fellow in the junior class whom I knew, and he told a story about me to the boys who were to listen. The story shocked me as well as the rest, to such an extent that I was confined to bed for some time. I was wrecked in soul by worry, and I was only 15. How any woman can bring a worthless being like him into the world and refer to him as, "my son," is beyond me. The result was that when that story got around to the 1,800 students, I was anything but confident. For every one added more my friends deserted me and I traveled alone. I never told my mother that I had any trouble. I was so racked in body and mind that I even thought of murdering that low-down being. I certainly am a wonder I am not in prison or my grave.

It wouldn't have been so bad but every one believed the story, even some of the teachers. When I was left alone I studied and ended the first year with one of the highest averages in the class. But I still carried that terrible name. I went back the following term and found friends waiting for me. I kept up my good record in work up to my health gave way and I have not fully regained it yet. The girls who went with me were also talked about because they associated with me, but they let it go at that. The teachers took a better attitude toward me. I entered the third and fourth years with more societies. The boys began to respect me. I graduated with high marks and was highly Much too long! Not your letter, but this agony over the act of a warped mind. If there had been even one really competent instructor in your school that story would have been nipped in a day.

As it is you can surely afford to forgive and are sufficiently secure to forget. You are successful, able. You should be radiating the joy of accomplishment instead of brooding over the act of subnormal youth. Look out upon life. It is yours. If this thing had not happened you would never have made your average; never have won success, would probably have married at 18 and taken in washing like your classmate. The moving finger writes. We read and can not understand. Start now to live—in joy.

BEAUTY AND YOU

By VIOLA PARIS

TROUBLESOME "GOOSE PIMPLES."

DEAR Viola Paris: Almost as long as I can remember, I have had a dry skin. I am annoyed and sometimes embarrassed by goose pimples on my arms and legs. Often they become red when I take a bath in warm or hot water. I have tried various things recommended by my friends without much result. Is there anything I can do that will make my skin smooth and not so dry? I am 19 years old.

DISCOURAGED.

Answer: There, most certainly is something you can do; but you will have to have patience and persistence, since your trouble is of long standing. You should scrub the arms and legs each day with warm water and a pure, white soap. I advise the use of a bath brush. You may expect to find that, at first, after a vigorous scrubbing with the brush, the skin will feel a bit sore and tender. If that is the case, pat on a little antiseptic lotion. A weak solution of boric acid, or peroxide, is good.

In addition to this treatment before retiring, there should be a brisk, dry rub with a coarse towel each morning, to be followed by a cool shower or sponge bath. A rub-down with ordinary table salt before the morning bath, not more than once a week, will be helpful.

If, in addition to being dry, the skin itches, you will do well to rub in a little olive oil or cold cream after the skin is scrubbed, rinsed and thoroughly dried.

Some women with skin of the type of yours like to soften the water for the bath with meal water. A teaspoonful of oatmeal or bran, allowed to stand in a pint of water before the liquid is poured into the bath, will insure the softness of the water. Remember that you can not conquer the roughness of your skin by occasionally following these suggestions. You must make the care of your skin, especially on your arms and legs, as much of a habit as caring for your nails, your hair or your teeth.

MODISH MITZI

It's a tremendously important question and at almost the last minute it hasn't been decided what kind of a veil shall Alyse wear? This one is of white tulle with a wide band of cream lace across the front and orange blossoms holding the folds of filmy silk together at the neck. It's perfect, but for all that Mitzi hesitates.

Right and Wrong for Sports

ONE could write a book about the incorrect clothes that many women wear on nearly every occasion, but the one that stands out in the most glaring manner is the wrong sports costume. Vogue shows here two young women who lunched the other day at a country club near New York. They were both beautiful girls, but the one shown at the left looked entirely out of the picture. She was wearing a three-piece costume—so far, she was correct—but her sweater-blouse was made of red crepe de chine with lace insertions and with a belt that fastened with a jeweled buckle. The coat and skirt were made of a red and cream printed foulard and trimmed with bands cut in a design of the same crepe de chine. Her hat was a very pretty soft felt with a rolling brim, but very out of place on the golf course. Her shoes were very high-heeled black patent leather models. It is true that she looked pretty, because the color was becoming to her, but she looked absurd in that background. Her friend, who lunched with her, was a joy to behold. In beige and brown tones from head to foot, she seemed to melt into the background. She wore a three-piece costume with the skirt of printed brown and beige heavy crepe de chine and a scarf trimmed on the ends with a band of the same material. Her sweater was of a very thin wool in a light brown with circular stripes around the waistline. Her cardigan sweater-coat was in the background of the skirt. All of these browns and beiges blended together perfectly. Her shoes were in brown antelope, of the laced type. Her hat was beige felt, trimmed with brown grosgrain ribbon which matched the cardigan coat-sweater.

And Four Weddings Aren't Possible!

Because Mitzi has already seen this veil, and if Alyse wants her unprejudiced judgment, Mitzi must see them all before deciding which to recommend. This is of tulle, too, swathed like a turban, with soft folds under the chin, and with a bunch of orange blossoms on each side. Alyse looks demure and charming and rather sophisticated—

Mr. Work's Pointer On Auction Bridge

WE ARE continuing today the consideration of bidding questions, both simple and complex, of the kind that frequently arise in Auction Bridge.

TODAY'S HAND.

♠ A-X-X-X
♥ A-X-X-X
♦ A-X
♣ X

Three questions concerning the above hand: score in all cases love-all. How many can you answer? Write your mind before you read the answers which follow.

1. What should South (Dealer) declare, holding the above hand?
2. What should North (Third Hand) declare with it: South having bid one Diamond and West having passed?
3. What should East (Fourth Hand) declare with it: South having bid one Club, West having doubled and North having passed?

THE ANSWERS.

1. One Spade. In spite of the three Aces, a No Trump should not be considered with a hand containing a worthless singleton and a biddable Major—not to mention a Major two-suiter. As between the two Majors, the Heart is the stronger, but the Spade the higher-valued; and as there is no difference in length the difference in strength is not very material, the Spade should be named first because it makes the showing of the two suits much simpler. Only when the Heart is both stronger and longer, or when it is at least two cards longer, should it be named first.

2. One Spade. Here we have the case of a Third Hand who should show a better bid over partner's Minor. In this case there is quite a good chance that partner may have the Clubs stopped. Giving North a good No Trump bid, but with a Major two-suiter, the Club risk ought not to be taken. South must have some side strength, but it may be Spades or Hearts and consequently this is a hand in which the Spades should be named first, so as to show a two-suiter, if possible.

3. One Heart. With this bidding, West's double having announced strength in both Hearts and Spades, and East having such great help for the double, there is every probability that East's selection will stand and that he will not have a chance to make a second bid. That being the case, it is wiser for him to name the stronger of his two Majors, the Heart, and consequently the Heart is selected in preference to the Spade.

Conduct and Common Sense

By ANNE SINGLETON

TO PEGGY, MARY ANN AND ELSA.

I SHOULD be happy to know what you regard as being the most attractive and correct dress for one's dresser and chifonier when the bedroom is so furnished. So many places I notice entire absence of toilet articles on the dresser such as brush and comb and mirror. Can you suggest something pretty for one's dresser? I am sure there is plenty of sunshine and fresh air.

"PEGGY."
I think you mean a dressing table or bureau, my dear girl. A dresser in spite of all the mistaken department shop language in the country, is a kitchen cabinet and has never been anything else in polite society. Don't be afraid to leave your pretty toilet articles out on your dressing table. Only one-room apartments are they ever properly hidden away. No lady should be ashamed of them in her bedroom. One very pretty way to cover a dressing table or bureau is to have a piece of fine embroidered muslin, either in plain white or a delicate color, fitted to the top and then covered with a piece of clear glass. This can be washed off easily, and under it the cover keeps clean for ages.

"I should appreciate it if you would inform me which is correct to serve with fruit cocktail, a salad fork or a spoon?"

"MARY H."
When including my card and my husband's with a wedding present, should I write under Mr. and Mrs. George Grant, nee Elsa Fresh? I wish to send a gift of the bride of a friend in the East."

You could do so. Or you could write a line "with all good wishes" on the card and sign it Elsa Fresh Grant. If you could write a note of congratulation to your friends, so near he could explain. Any of these ways would be right.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

DANGERS IN LAUGHING TOO HEARTILY.

THE Hon. Martin Madden, leader of Congress and a veteran representative from Illinois, died suddenly as he was laughing heartily.

Personal replies will be made to inquiries under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual disease.

The point to the story is that hard laughter is violent muscular work and may strain a tenuous heart beyond its capacity for maintaining balance. The advice that follows is that men with serious heart and blood vessel troubles should follow the detailed advice of their physicians in the matter of laughing. A competent physician in charge of a heart case advises his patient in minute detail as to exercise, work, rest, sleep and diet. This he regards as more important than advice as to medicines. Advice as to laughter should be included in the list of subjects covered.

Laughter is the result of short, hard, jerky contractions of the diaphragm. The great heavy muscle which separates the chest from the abdomen. The heart lies on this muscle at certain places.

The great vessels to and from the heart pierce this muscle. Also lying against the diaphragm, are other great organs, which indirectly pierce the heart, such as the lungs on the upper side, the liver and stomach on the under surface. No other form of exercise, except it be violent coughing, bears so directly and so powerfully on the heart as does explosive laughter.

There is nothing in any of this which contradicts any of the statements found in Walsh on "Laughter." That excellent book dwells on the good effects of laughter, but it is a note of caution—laughter should be moderate, and it is powerful for good, by the same quality may do harm.

JUST FOLKS

Speaking of Champions.

The champions are gifted men, but they're very few. But one there is who wears the crown until his reign is through. But one who can the swiftest run, or strike the hardest blow. Or be supreme in any test—and champions come and go.

Men rarely strive to lead their fields—they give their strength and time. The highest mountain on the earth to be the first to climb. They train their muscles and their nerves with energy will. For who would be champion must have the greatest skill.

Now I can read the record books and find each champion's name, And learn who leads his little field in every sport and game; But I can find no mention there of name or date of birth Of him who's given his thought to be the kindest man on earth.

I'm told who can the swiftest run and who can fastest swim, But who's the greatest neighbor here—Who leads the field in kindly deeds? No line of him is penned. Somehow, I think I'd like to know who is the champion friend.

THE SPOTLIGHT

By JOHN J. DALY

The theatrical world, busily engaged now in raising a fund of $25,000 for needy playwrights, causes Mr. T. D. Bonnevillie, manager of Poli's, to remark, or, rather, muse, "Needy playwrights? Is there any other kind?" Of course, he goes on to explain, they are all in need of new ideas. And those who are really in need of financial assistance, not to mention the word electomonym—if that is the way it's spelled—should by this time be used to it; for, as Mr. Bonnevillie aptly recalls, most American playwrights served their apprenticeship in journalism. So did he.

That out of his system, the genial manager of the playhouse on the south side of The Avenue furnishes the good news that Forrest Huff, who came to Washington week before last to sing in "The Chocolate Soldier," has been engaged to remain over, or "Robin Hood," next week, to sing the role of "Little John." As a matter of fact, Forrest Huff would have remained in Washington even were he not engaged to sing in "Robin Hood."

It seems that Forrest Huff and Washington form the happy combination; that he loves the city as much as the city loves him, and his voice, so he has taken over a studio apartment, up near the Corcoran Gallery, where his wife, the celebrated Fritz von Busling, has a kitchenette to prepare daily morsels for her beloved spouse. Huff "turns" on the Municipal golf links every day. Well, Washington will hear some good singing when Forrest Huff cuts loose again next week.

"I was very much interested hearing Dr. Huff repeat 'Case' at the Bat's other night," writes Don Deely, "and I am wondering if you would be able to tell me, and a multitude of fans, just how many times Mr. Hopper has which indirectly pierce the heart, such as the lungs on the upper side, the liver and stomach on the under surface. No other form of exercise, except it be violent coughing, bears so directly and so powerfully on the heart as does explosive laughter.

Myths of the Norsemen
H. HOW THOR GOT HIS HAMMER.

THE Norsemen believed in elves, as well as in gods and giants. The elves were supposed to dwell in caves and other secret places. Some elves were good, others bad.

Loeki accepted the bet, Brock went away, and soon he brought back three marvelous gifts. One was a hammer for Thor which could be used to make thunder. The gods decided that the gifts of Brock were better than those made by the elf friends of Loeki; so they gave the bet to Brock.

The fire-god had no wish to lose his head, so he ran away. Thor caught him, but Loeki grinned and said:

"Very well! Brock can have my head but not a bit of my neck." The dwarf was outwitted. He tried to take revenge by sewing up Loeki's lips, but the crafty god cut the thread and was able to speak again.

STRONG EARLY SUPPORT CAUSES BROAD UPSWING

Tightening of Money Fails to Check Buying; Fourteen Stocks at New High.

MANY LOSSES WIPED OUT

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, June 5.—Bear operators and timid traders who went into the stock market today with the idea that yesterday's slump was going to be continued and probably elaborated upon, found themselves greatly in error, as stocks rallied strongly after some weakness. The market went through a series of irregular price fluctuations which did not leave it, except in a few isolated instances, far removed from the preceding close. However, the dominant note was one of uncertainty. The strength resulting in the rally came from within the market itself. Buyers who refused to grow alarmed took stocks in large blocks sufficient to force an upward trend.

The recovery already under way before it received encouragement from the call money market. Funds were plentiful at 6 1/2 per cent all day and in the afternoon, available on the outside at 6 1/4 per cent. For the time money market was quiet and unchanged. The high call and time money rates on the New York exchange have attracted considerable volume of foreign funds to this market, and to induce any domestic corporations with unemployed balances to put their funds to work.

Net gains outnumbered losses by a good margin, extending to more than 9 points, and causing the establishment of fourteen new highs for the year or thereabouts. There also were four new lows, including Western Union.

Among the stocks to attain new peak prices were International Combustion, up 7 1/2 net in extremely heavy trading; American Beet Sugar, American Express, and several others, all of which were preferred stocks. The day's turnover was approximately 3,500,000 shares.

Apparently the public following in the stock market recently referred to as the most extensive in the history of Wall street, is not of a mind to become easily scared by a tightening of credit. At any rate, the strengthening of credit for outside accounts was evidence, notwithstanding the cumulative evidence of the last few months' brokers' loans statistics, that the market was passing from strong to weaker hands.

At the outset yesterday's late declines were continued in some quarters of the market, but there never was any indication of the actual weakness which prevailed toward the closing of the previous session. The record increase in stock brokers' loans was brushed aside and strong support for numerous speculative leaders soon brought about a general higher trend and a strong tone prevailed throughout the remainder of the day. Traders who had disposed to be rendered anxious by the Federal Reserve survey of credit conditions, regarded broadly, nevertheless, as a warning against speculative excesses.

The tide was turned upward by strong buying in U. S. Steel common, Allied Chemical, and International Nickel. Case Threshing, International Combustion, International Nickel, Missouri Pacific, Mack Trucks, Western Electric, General Motors, Chrysler, Dodge, Hudson, and White, Standard, American Linseed, Montgomery Ward, McCrory, National Biscuit, Consolidated Gas, and others in which small margins were ranging from fractions to 9 points.

The coppers were steady in moderate trading, most of them closing in the blue line by a small margin. Richmond Oil, Houston and Atlantic Refining were the strongest in their group, closing with moderate net advances. Rubbers were quiet, although a few were strong and higher, and tobacco was steady.

Weakness in several European exchange rates contributed to high money, sterling dropping 3-1/2 cents, while German marks lost 4 points and French francs remained weak. Canadian dollars repeated their low of the previous session. Far Easterns also were easier.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, June 5 (A.P.).—In a semi-moribund market, wheat prices had little change on account of partial relief from widespread drought, but a few traders had little selling and a dearth of buying carried the market downward almost continuously from start to finish.

Closing quotations on what were weak at about the lowest point reached 1/2 cent to 5/8 cents a bushel under yesterday's prices. The market was 1/2 cent to 1/4 cents down, oats 1/2 cent to 1/4 cents off, and provisions from 1/2 cent to 1/4 cents to a rise of 10 cents.

Wheat that some Canadian wheat traders had received rain in torrents and that wheat was copious elsewhere in the spring wheat belt north of the international frontier put values on the down grade as soon as the market opened. No rain of importance was reported south of the Canadian border, but the heavy rain in the north showed for various sections of the region, and the continued advance of crop damage, which was reported from some districts, augmented the pressure to sell in the wheat market here, with the fact that prices at Liverpool had not only failed to follow yesterday's advances but had declined, and that a heavy rain had been reported from the principal corn and oats producing areas in the north and west.

Provisions showed firmness early, but afterward reflected the setbacks in the value of grain.

FOREIGN GROUP SUFFERS

New York, June 5 (A.P.)—The bond market continued down the hill today. Cumulative effects of high money rates, the credit situation and hesitancy to increase commitments caused a wave of liquidation. The heaviest day's trading in some time and the lowest prices of the year.

The entire list showed U. S. Government bonds to lower levels, foreign bonds as well as speculative issues showing comparatively wide declines. Buying support usually attracted to high-grade issues on light reaction, but was lacking and losses of 1 to 3 points were numerous.

Recovery of the stock market late in the day appeared to cause no change in the sagging bond market and final quotations were around the day's low levels.

The decline in U. S. Government obligations, coming on the eve of an expected Treasury announcement of new financing, was the sharpest in months. Treasury issues were thrown on the market and at the close losses ranging from 10-32 to 23-32 to the lowest levels of the year. Liberty 4 1/2% closed not greatly above level.

In the industrial group Dodge Brothers' debenture 5s eased more than a point. Certain 5 1/2% General Motors acceptance 5s and others showed fractional declines, some moving to new year's lows. Anaconda Copper 7s, however, held firm.

Rails suffered even wider declines. St. Paul 5s of 1935, the Chicago Burlington & Quincy issues, Erie Refunding and Improvement 5s, Erie 4s, Great Northern 5s and St. Louis & San Francisco 4 1/2% moved down 1 to more than 3 points to the lowest levels of the year.

The pressure was felt in the foreign list as well, some Latin-American issues, Tokyo City 5 1/2%, Australian Commonwealth 4 1/2%, Fiat 5s with others registering losses of more than a point. Belgian 7s, British United Kingdom 4s and German General Electric 7s made small gains.

A new issue of $112,000,000 Province of Silesia 7 per cent sinking fund gold bonds offered today was reported oversubscribed. Public offering is expected tomorrow of $12,000,000, 6 1/2% Province of Silesia 1933, Nov. 1936.

U. S. sinking fund gold bonds, proposed to be used for retiring the outstanding external indebtedness of the department and for improvement of the Panama Canal, owned in part by the Republic.

OPERA "LA FAVORITA"
BY ENSEMBLE TONIGHT
Donizetti's Most Famous Production Will Be Broadcast at 9 o'clock.
SINGING GIRL ALSO LISTED

Station WPG at Atlantic City will hook up with station WJZ and the blue network of the National Broadcasting Co. at 9 o'clock tonight in order to broadcast the program of talks and entertainment at the season of the public policy committee of the National Electric Light Association in the ballroom of the Million Dollar Pier.
Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, will give a five-minute summary of the report of the public policy committee.
The entertainment will be furnished by B. A. Rolfe's Orchestra and Richard Crooks, tenor.
Donizetti's opera, "La Favorita," has been chosen as this week's offering by the National Grand Opera Ensemble to be broadcast at 9:30 o'clock. The opera contains some of Donizetti's finest solo and ensemble work, and the title part is written for the mezzo-soprano or contralto voice contrary to the tradition existing in the composer's play that the prima donna should be a soprano. The opera is set in Castile, Spain, and the action takes place about the year 1840.
The program for the slumber music tonight is as follows: Overture to "The Impresario," Mozart; "Suite Antique," Stoessel; selection from "Nell Gwynn," dances, German; selection from "Madame Angot," Lecocq; five lyric pieces, Orleg; "Nocturne," Mendelssohn, and "Indian Lament."
A play-by-play account of the Washington-Chicago baseball game will begin at 3 o'clock from WRC.
"The Singing Girl," a comic opera by Herbert, with Jessica Dragonette, soprano, and Colin O'More, tenor, in the leads, will be presented during the first half hour of the Philco hour from Station WJZ at 8 o'clock tonight. The remaining time will be devoted to excerpts from popular musical comedies of recent years.
Col Charles I. Stengle will tell the audience of Station WJZ about the political situation at 8:30 o'clock tonight. Chick Godfrey, the singing leatherneck; Thelma Mills Rector, soprano, and musical saw novelties are other features during the early program. The Washington College of Music hour will be presented at 10 o'clock, followed by Hopkins' Old Time Fiddlers.
The Brunswick Panopthe hour of music will be broadcast from WMAL at 7:30 o'clock. Paul F. Grove, sr., will be heard in dialect stories, followed by a joint program by Janet Coon, whistler, and Thelma Callahan, pianist.
A Bible talk to little folks will be broadcast during the watch tower period from WJZ at 6 o'clock. Mr.
E. F. Keller, jr., will be the speaker.
